Won By Moderates," sets forth, in part, the following:

"It appeared to be the moderates' turn Wednesday night as about 300 women turned out for a rally that was the final scheduled event for Women's Strike Day.

"The panel discussion was held in Redeemer Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1933 W. Wisconsin Ave.

"Sister Mary Austin Doherty of Alverno College, who served as moderator, remarked that the evening itself was proof that women of all ages and interests could unite and listen to each other and perhaps change society.

"Mrs. Barbara Brown, also of Alverno's faculty, said she had no experienced oppression in her career in the nursing profession, and would like to have every woman feel as free as she did. She was hissed and interrupted by young radicals at one point when she said that there were ways of 'liberating oneself' and women tended to 'overexaggerate what homemaking takes.'

"Sister Austin gently reminded the audience that it was there to listen and to share each experience. The noise subsided."
